SEARCHING FOR THE NORTHERN LIGHTS IN ARCTIC NORWAY

"The place for those with Northern Lights on the bucket list"

Nearly half of Norway's land mass is Arctic territory, consisting of the two counties Nordland and the combined county of Troms and Finnmark. In this expedition you will travel from Oslo, the vibrant capital of Norway, to the islands of Senja and Tromsø, possibly the best aurora borealis locations in the world because of its proximity to the Earth's Magnetic Pole,

NORTHERN LIGHTS

Watching the northern lights dancing overhead on a clear night is one of the most spectacular and awe inspiring sights of nature, and one that leaves memories that would last a lifetime.

Vikings associated the lights with Bifröst, the rainbow bridge to the realm of the gods. In AD 1230, the first rational description of this phenomenon, is found in the Norwegian Chronicle, The King's Mirror, when at the time some believed that auroras were lights in the sky coming from fires that surrounded the oceans.

Today, we know that auroras are caused by charged particles coming from the sun, that are captured by the Earth's magnetic field and guided down towards the polar regions, where they collide with atoms in the atmosphere that again sends out light in amazing colors.

UNFORGETTABLE SENJA

FROM SEA TO SUMMIT

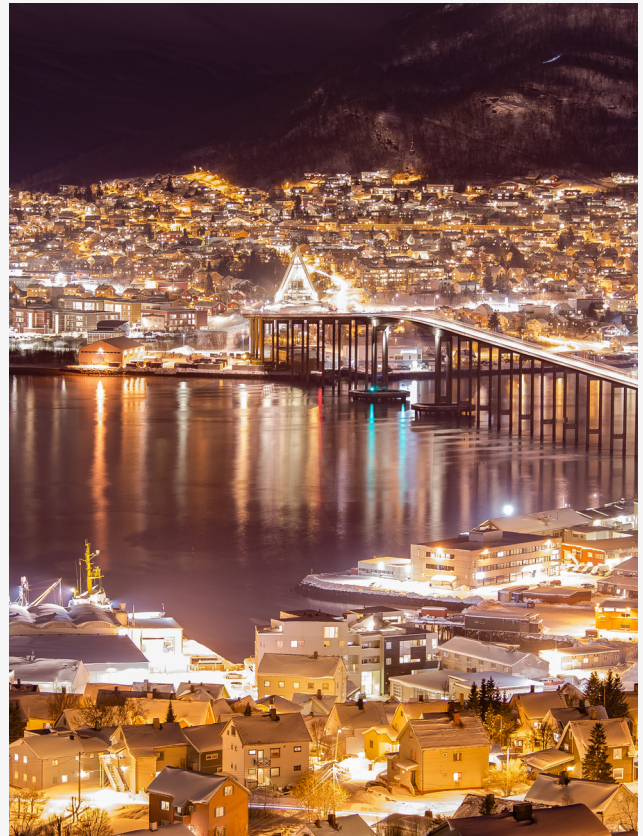

After a short but fascinating visit to Oslo, Norway's capital and a hidden gem rich in culture and unusually close to nature, our first stop in the Arctic, is Senja or Sážžá (Northern Sámi).

Senja is the the second largest island in Norway. Its nature is a distilled version of the best that Norway has to offer. It has a wild, mountainous outer side facing the Atlantic, and a mild and lush inner side. It's an outdoor recreation paradise.

At Senja, the northern lights may put on a spectacular show for you

THRILLING TROMSO

THE CAPITAL OF THE ARCTIC AND THE NORTHERN LIGHTS

Your second stop in the Arctic, is Tromsø, not only a cultural centre for its region, but also, the centre of the northern aurora zone with dazzling celestial displays circling the sky above.

Tromsø, a city of mountains, fjords and fauna, has been known as the "Paris of the North" because of its rich culture, intellectual life and current fashions.

EXPLORING THE ARCTIC

SENJA AND TROMSO EXPEDITION

Led by our expert team, you will not only visit stunning natural attractions and unimaginable places, but also delve into its culture, learn about auroras, take photography lessons, and leave with unforgettable memories.

Explore the National Parks, walk with snowshoes surrounded by breathtaking mountains and overlooking amazing lakes, run into fascinating fauna, and stop along the way at beautiful places and viewing points. Enjoy, in a private boat, a day of fishing, maybe also do some ice fishing. And every day during your stay, get delighted with unique arctic cuisine experiences,

After learning about the Husky breed and their welfare, you will just lean back in your sled or lead a team of huskies on an enthralling arctic adventure.

At Tromsø you will ride a cable car to the mountain ledge Storsteinen (421 m above sea level) and enjoy a panoramic view of the city and its surrounding mountains and fjords. On the edge of the cliff lies Fjellstua where you will have dinner while you enjoy the amazing view.

Along the way, you will meet amazing locals and listen to their perplexing stories, and of course, be astonished by the amazing northern lights, possibly even from the comfort of your room.

Get ready for a magical, unforgettable and amazing experience!
